TITLES IN FOCUS

- ▶ “The Cardiovascular System, Part 1: Anatomy and Subjective Data” in Nursing Assessment (Cypress, CA: Medcom, 2012)

Excerpt: “The circulator system consists of four components: the heart, blood vessels, blood and lymph vessels. These four component work together to accomplish two important tasks: deliver oxygen and nutrients to, and remove waste from, every cell in the body. The center of the cardiovascular system is the heart....”

- ▶ “The Integumentary System” in Nursing Assessment (Cypress, CA: Medcom, 2013)

Excerpt: “Our skin, also called the Integument, is an elastic durable covering, protecting our body and is our largest organ. The skin’s functions include protecting the body from bacterial invasion and from drying out, regulating body temperature, providing sensory reception, synthesizing vitamin D, excreting waste products, and serving as a reservoir for blood and nutrients.”

- ▶ “The Key to Quality Patient Care” in Nursing Assessment (Cypress, CA: Medcom, 2012)

Excerpt: “Often, the nurse serves as they eyes and ears of the entire team as he or she has the most frequent, direct and prolonged patient contact. This frequent contact is a primary reason it is important for nurses to be highly adept at patient assessment. The nurse is often the first one to see subtle indicators that a patient’s condition is changing. Studies show patients and family members tent to trust nurses, with society as a whole regarding nurses as honest, ethical and trustworthy. For this reason, they may confide more openly in the nurses than in others. The most important thing to remember about assessment is that it is an ongoing process. Every time you see a patient, you need to be assessing for changes....”
