Classical Music Library

The most comprehensive multi-label, online collection of classical music recordings.

Praise for Classical Music Library:

- Charleston Advisor Reader's Choice Award
- Library Journal, Best Reference Database of 2004
- "Familiar and exotic labels blend in an impressive and remarkable list. . . . Eminently searchable and browseable—this is the key to a good music service."—Charleston Advisor, ★★ ★ 1/2 stars
- "A breakthrough resource."—Library Journal
- "Highly recommended."—CHOICE
- "Academic libraries that support even small music programs should strongly consider subscribing."—Reference Reviews

This continuously growing online collection includes tens of thousands of tracks from the world's greatest classical music labels, including Hyperion, Bridge Records, Sanctuary Classics, Artemis-Vanguard, Hänssler Classic, Vox, and many more. Coverage ranges from medieval to contemporary, with choral works, symphonies, operas, the avant-garde, vocal and instrumental music, chamber music, and many other forms.

Users can create their own playlists and either keep them private or share them—with just their institution's users or with all users. Faculty will appreciate the themed playlists (women composers, baroque, operetta, and more), as well as those tailored to specific courses and teaching anthologies.

Alexander Street's Semantic Indexing™, multiple and combinable search fields, and highly functional browsing allow researchers to find information that might otherwise remain buried or unreachable. No one offers such an extensive controlled vocabulary of musical terms—more than 200 classical genres and subgenres, 11,000 composers, 7,000 performers and ensembles, and 200 instruments.

Cross-searchable with all of your Music Online content from a single interface

As part of Alexander Street's Music Online suite of music listening and reference collections, Classical Music Library can be cross-searched together with all of your library's Music Online listening, reference, score, and video subscriptions—from a single interface.

Imagine searching for Mozart and finding hundreds of recordings in Classical Music Library, a biography and related reference and critical works in Classical Music Reference Library, scores in Classical Scores Library that you can read while you listen, together with performances in Dance in Video and Opera in Video featuring the composer's work. This is how users have always wished research could be done—through a single search with results from a variety of resources and in all available formats. And beginning in 2010, access all your Music Online content—including recordings from Classical Music Library—via your iPhone or iPod Touch!

Publication details

Classical Music Library is available to libraries online through annual subscription—and it's affordable. For just a few hundred dollars a year, you can bring tens of thousands of recordings into your library—with lower rates for libraries who subscribe to other Music Online collections. There is no setup involved, and no special software to download—just point your browser to the collection and enjoy! Learn more at <http://alexanderstreet.com/music.htm>.
