Counseling & Therapy in Video: Classic:
Foundational videos from 1985-2010 cover recent history of practices

Provides a firsthand look at the realities of working with clients and the challenges associated with putting theoretical concepts into practice. World renowned therapists such as Albert Ellis and Derald Wing Sue demonstrate their methods and techniques.

Counseling & Therapy in Video: Volume III:
Films about the founders of theory and the progression of practices to today

Presents a firm grounding in the theoretical modalities of counseling and psychotherapy while expanding into new and emerging areas such as social media, veterans, cyberbullying, mindfulness, and neuroscience.

Counseling & Therapy in Video: Volume IV:
This multimedia collection addresses new population groups, contemporary approaches and issues

Focuses on prevalent issues in counseling, such as the rise in cases involving underserved populations, racial trauma, and veterans suffering from PTSD. This volume delivers content aligned with the CACREP eight common core areas, and introduces the DSM-5® and ICD-10. It includes video; transcripts from real therapy sessions; hours of expert-led presentations, lectures, and workshops; and ebooks and periodicals.

Counseling & Therapy in Video: Volume V, The Symptom Media Collection:
Comprehensive DSM-5® / ICD-10 coverage has built-in assessments to assess comprehension

Ideal for counseling, psychology, social work, nursing and other behavioral health care courses, Volume V helps students better recognize mental health disorders and provides accurate diagnoses via streaming mental health videos aligned to DSM-5®/ICD-10 content. Assessment options included.

Essential concepts practitioners use in their everyday work

Social Work Online combines compelling documentaries and videos of client demonstrations with relevant text to illustrate the complex and challenging realities social work students will face as practitioners. Video and text are structured around the most important topics in the social work curriculum.

Prepares nurses to assess, diagnose, and manage mental health issues

Nursing and Mental Health in Video: A Symptom Media Collection helps nurses and nursing students understand, assess and manage the mental health issues that often present themselves alongside physical conditions. Featuring videos of the most common mental health disorders nurses may encounter, these essential visual examples address situations that come up in primary care, emergency rooms, psychiatric facilities, and other settings.

Explores humankind's journey to understand itself

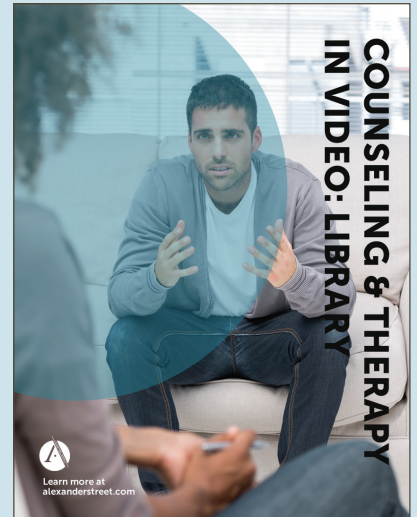

Psychological Experiments Online synthesizes the most important psychological experiments of the 20th and 21st centuries, fostering deeper levels of understanding for students and scholars alike. Highlights include Zimbardo's Stanford Prison Experiment, Milgram's Obedience to Authority, Bandura's Bobo Doll Experiment, and Loftus's eyewitness testimony research. The collection pairs audio and video recordings of original experiments with primary-source documents.
